

09/466400

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A device for contacting an electrically operated apparatus, having at least one terminal contact on the apparatus and one plug that can be connected to it axially, with the plug including a sleeve contact which is in contact with an electrically conducting contact area of the terminal contact after joining them, with the terminal contact being oriented parallel to an installation direction of the apparatus, and the sleeve contact being connectable to the terminal contact parallel to the installation direction.

5

220937

2025 RELEASE UNDER E.O. 14176